Research Project Guidelines

- Your research project should engage with the literary and cultural works we have been reading & discussing as well as with selected primary materials beyond that context.
- Open topic, form, style, and media.
- Craft a balance between research & interpretation, creativity & critique.
- Make connections among your primary and secondary materials.
- For your secondary materials, include at least five peer-reviewed books or journal articles relevant for your topic.
- Engage with evidence (i.e. direct quotation) from all of your primary and secondary works. Use either MLA or Chicago format for your citations in either a list of works cited, or in notes.
- Three-page proposal due at the beginning of class on Thursday, February 11. These will be graded (on the check system) and also must be approved.

Project length: 10-12 pages (or the equivalent, depending upon media).

Due: Friday, March 11
