

Faculty Senate Survey of Student Teaching Evaluations
Winter Quarter 2013 - last modified on 02/28/2013

1. Are you satisfied with the present student teaching evaluation process?
Yes – 76 – 32%
No – 163 – 68%
Total=239

2. Are you satisfied with the student response rate (approx. 65% for undergrad and graduate students) for the student teaching evaluations?
Yes – 63 – 26%
No – 177 – 74%
Total=240

3. Are you satisfied with the standardized open and close dates in which students can fill out the student teaching form online?
Yes – 147 – 61%
No – 93 – 39%
Total=240

4. Are you satisfied with the standardized questions that appear on the present student teaching evaluation process?
Yes – 113 – 47%
No – 127 – 53%
Total=240

5. Do you think that the student teaching evaluations should be the principal method of evaluating teaching?
Yes – 41 – 17%
No – 200 – 83%
Total=241

6. Please provide us with your comments and/or suggestions in the box below.

(some themes collected after a first pass, but not completed with systematic analysis!)

- Low response rate
- Students can't judge all aspects of teaching
- SETs measure satisfaction rather than learning
- Not the right questions
- Need more than SETs to evaluate teaching