AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR 18TH-CENTURY
STUDIES

CELEBRATING 50 YEARS

With this year's meeting in Denver, ASECS commences the celebration of its quinquagenary. Our Society came into being fifty years ago, after the four American members of the Executive Committee of the International Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies (Lester G. Crocker, James L. Clifford, Peter Gay and Donald Greene) convened a meeting in New York in December 1968. The meeting was a call to all persons interested in the formation of a North American organization "in which students of the century in various disciplines could get together and exchange views and information." (ECS Newsletter, vol. 1, no. 1, Fall 1970) That meeting was timed to coincide with the annual conferences of both the American Historical Association and the Modern Language Association of America, which were taking place in New York that same week. Some 200 people turned up to express their interest in establishing the proposed organization. The ISECS Executive Committee members were charged with drafting a provisional constitution, to be approved by those who had attended in New York. After this was accomplished in 1969, a provisional Executive Board was named and an elected Executive Board (made up of ten men and one woman) soon followed. The first annual meeting of the new Society was set for Cleveland, OH, and took place there on 17 and 18 April 1970.

A quinquagenary is a moment that invites us to take stock, as well as to celebrate. Thus, this year's program includes six presidential sessions, which are intended to help us reflect on ASECS's past as well some of the pressing questions for our future. As we celebrate our 50th year, I should like us also to honor the ASECS faithful, most especially those remarkable stalwarts who have been active members of the Society and attending our meetings for decades, some of them since the very beginning. Thus, I take this opportunity to thank them, and the rest of our members, for their engagement in and contribution to the scholarly community of ASECS, as we look forward to our next fifty years.

Melissa Hyde
President

President's 50th Anniversary Advisory Committee:

Kristin Distel, April Fuller, Jenna Gibbs, Travis Chi Wing Lau, Ramesh Mallipeddi, Christy Pichichero, Jeff Ravel, Jeffrey Schrader, and Paris Spies-Gans

GENERAL INFORMATION

Meeting Location: All sessions and events listed in the program, unless otherwise noted, will take place at the Grand Hyatt-Denver, 1750 Welton St, Denver, CO 80202. Floorplans of the hotel may be found on the inside front cover of this program.

Meeting Website: <https://asecsoffice.wixsite.com/asecsdenver2019>

Room Rates: Grand Hyatt-Denver: Room rate is $169.00/per night plus applicable taxes. Hotel reservations may be made online by visiting <https://denver.grand.hyatt.com/> or by phone: (303) 295-1234. You may book rooms there via the website or by calling 407-827-6310. The ASECS booking code is G-ASCS. You will need to enter this code after selecting “Special Rates” and clicking on “Corporate or Group Code” on the hotel website.

Transportation: SkyRide buses operate 7 days a week/365 days a year. Buses depart from each SkyRide stop once an hour or more. One-way fare to Downtown Denver is approximately $11. Taxicabs are available to Downtown Denver for a flat rate fee of $55.15. Shared ride services (pick-up and drop-off outside Jeppesen Terminal, Level 5, Island 3), as well as Lyft and Uber are also available.

Registration, Meeting Materials, and Information are available at the ASECS Registration Desk located across from the elevators on the second floor of the hotel.

Programs are mailed to current ASECS members in January. Programs will be included in the registration packets of ISECS members and those participants who join/renew their membership in ASECS after February 1. Replacement programs will be available at the ASECS Registration Desk for a $5.00 charge. The program also is available on the Meeting website.

ASECS Membership: The Annual Meeting is sponsored by the Executive Board of the American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies for the benefit of the Society’s membership. Interested persons are invited to join the Society by contacting John Hopkins University Press at <https://asecs.press.jhu.edu/membership/join>. All participants whose names appear in the Annual Meeting program must be members of ASECS or of a constituent society of ISECS or have been designated as an official guest of the Society.

Book Exhibit: The publishers' book exhibit will be open Thursday and Friday from 8 am to 5 pm and Saturday from 8 am to 3 pm.

Refund Policy: For all cancellations made prior to the first day of the Annual Meeting, a full refund of registration, less a $15 service charge, will be made following the meeting. Tickets for optional meals and events are not refundable. No-shows will forfeit their registration and fees for optional meals and events.

2019 Graduate Student Conference Paper Competition

The ASECS Executive Board offers an award of $200 for the best paper presented in person by a graduate student at the Annual Meeting (regional meetings do not qualify). Papers submitted for this award may be no longer than 2,500 words plus notes. Entries in the 2019 competition must be sent via email and received by the ASECS Business Office no later than Monday, March 25, 2019.

The Doctor Is In

Friday, 9:00 am – 2:30 pm; Saturday 9:00–11:30 am & 12:30–4:00 pm

Organizers: Rebecca SHAPIRO, City University of New York (rshapiro@citytech.cuny.edu) and Jason FARR, Marquette University (jason.farr@marquette.edu)

The Doctor is In is a mentoring help desk open to all ASECS members, from students to late-career faculty. Contact the organizers to make an appointment before or during the Annual Meeting or drop in on Friday or Saturday. The volunteer mentors offer advice on a wide range of topics including (but not limited to): appropriate structures for CVs; writing job letters; managing a research agenda at a teaching institution; matching your article to a suitable journal; interpreting readers' comments after an article is returned and tackling a revision; writing a book proposal for an edition, anthology, or monograph; finding the right press for a book proposal; facing challenges presented to dual career couples; addressing the needs and concerns of adjunct faculty and independent scholars; getting your toes wet in Digital Humanities; and thinking about your next book.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Studies in Eighteenth-Century Culture, Volume 50

Studies in Eighteenth-Century Culture is an interdisciplinary journal published annually for the American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies (ASECS) by the Johns Hopkins University Press. SECC publishes revised versions of papers read at national and regional conferences of ASECS and at the meetings of its affiliates, such as the Society of Early Americanists, the Early Caribbean Society, SHARP, etc. Digitized as part of Project Muse, SECC is a membership benefit of Patrons and Sponsoring Members of ASECS and is offered to all members at discount.

For the 2019-2020 volume (No. 50) the editors invite theoretically informed, academically rigorous essays that reflect new directions for research in the field of eighteenth-century culture, including literature, history, art history, theater and performance studies, music, ethnic studies, and women and gender studies. Essays from under-represented disciplines are particularly welcome.

In addition to publishing individual papers, the editors may publish at least one entire panel of 3-4 papers on the same subject, prefaced by a short introduction from the panel chair (in the case of double or triple sessions on the same topic, papers can be collected from different sessions). The editors are also open to publishing at least one roundtable as a "forum," in order to highlight new directions or important debates in eighteenth-century studies. If you are a panel chair interested in this option: please provide a proposal and short abstracts of the papers to confirm that they are on subjects that will work for the journal's broad interdisciplinary and multicultural audience. Do this in advance of asking participants to work on their papers, but after having ensured that they are willing to revise their conference papers into 5,000 word essays (including footnotes). Roundtable chairs should do the same, after ensuring that participants are willing to turn their remarks into readable 1,250-1,500 word contributions (including footnotes).

Guidelines for Submission to Volume 50: conference papers presented at regional and national meetings of ASECS and its affiliate societies between JULY 1, 2018 and JUNE 30, 2019 are eligible. Papers should be substantially revised from their conference format and use the Chicago Manual of Style. Submissions normally are in English. Single essay submissions are between 7,000 and 9,000 words in length. Contributions will be judged according to the highest standards of scholarship by blind review. Authors are thus asked to avoid identifying themselves throughout; references to one's own scholarship should be made in the third person. The editors of SECC cannot consider papers already submitted to other journals. The deadline for submission is August 1, 2019. Electronic submission to etbannet@ou.edu is preferred.

ACCESSIBILITY GUIDELINES FOR SESSION CHAIRS AND PRESENTERS

ASECS is committed to allowing all its members to participate fully in the Annual Meeting. Therefore, ASECS expects all session chairs and presenters to take the following steps to make their sessions accessible. The guidelines have been designed to provide access to attendees with disabilities, but they will benefit all participants.

Room Set-Up: Space has been left for two wheelchairs in each meeting room. Keep this area, doorways, and aisles clear for persons who may be using wheelchairs, canes, crutches, or motorized vehicles.

People who are deaf or hard of hearing and who use sign language interpreters or read lips need to sit where they can see both the speakers and the interpreter. The interpreter may stand close to the speaker or within a direct line of sight. Speakers should be aware of the location of interpreters and attempt to keep the line of sight clear; they also should not speak from a darkened area of the room.

Papers, Handouts and Audiovisuals: Presenters should bring one to two copies of their papers, even in draft form, for the use of members who wish or need to follow a written text. Presenters may ask for copies to be returned at the end of the session. Speakers who use handouts should prepare three additional copies in large print (16 or 18 point boldface type) and should avoid using colored paper. Briefly describe or read all handouts to the audience.

When referring to a visual aid or handout or when pointing out the location of materials in the room, allow time for audience members to follow this information. Projectors should be turned off when not in use, to reduce background noise.

For power point presentations: simple designs with minimal text and the largest possible font are the most visually friendly. Presenters should describe any images on slides.

Communication and Presentation: Speak clearly and distinctly but do not shout. Do not slow down unless asked by members of the audience, interpreters, or persons using real-time captioning. Microphones often fail to pick up voices in the audience, so speakers should repeat questions or statements made by audience members. Session chairs should ensure that only one person speaks at a time. In discussions, speakers should identify themselves so that audience members know who is speaking.

Shirley Bill Fund Honoring Teachers

The Shirley Bill Endowed Fund recognizes the centrality of teaching to academic life. Members of ASECS can honor a professor who has been an exemplary teacher or adviser by contributing $300 in honor or in memory of a great teacher and designating that donation to the Shirley Bill Teaching Fund. The names of teachers so honored are printed in the Annual Meeting Program. This fund supports the ASECS Innovative Course Design Competition.
