International Studies and Public Policy Internship Newsletter

The best thing you can do in the job search is networking and speaking up where it might feel the hardest.

One such opportunity is happening tomorrow, May 1st. Senator Michael Bennett will be hosting a Teletown Hall with college students across Colorado:

"I'd like to hear from you about the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on you as a student. I'm also interested in your thoughts about how we can build a more resilient future for our country, and I will happily answer any questions you have."

To register for the meeting, and get the information to call in, visit the website.

This could be a great opportunity to get involved with your community here in Colorado and have a unique experience to add to your journals.

Featured Internships

External Relations Internship

International Peace Institute - New York City, NY

Deadline: May 3, 2020

IPI is currently seeking an intern for a full-time, three-month paid summer internship (with the possibility of renewal), who will gain knowledge and skills from on-the-job experience. The External Relations Intern will also assist on research and follow-up to support the fundraising activities of the Senior Director of External Relations. The person in this position will assist the Development Officer with reporting requirements; as well as the Events Manager with outreach for select events. This position requires an energetic multitasker with related experience and excellent judgment, discretion, attention to details, initiative, and the ability to prioritize. It is imperative and essential that the person in this position has good communication skills, the ability to remain calm under pressure, is polite and has a positive disposition when liaising with staff and guests. For more information and to apply, visit PCO.

Congressional Internship

U.S. House of Representatives - Washington DC

Congressman Dan Newhouse (WA-04) is seeking paid interns for Summer 2020 in Washington, D.C. Interns will assist the legislative and administrative staff with various duties. Some duties include: attending briefings, answering phones, conducting Capitol tours, drafting constituent correspondence letters, and performing legislative research and analysis. We're looking for responsible individuals that are dependable, organized, and willing to learn. Internships are open to undergraduate students and college graduates. Washington state ties are encouraged but not required. For more information and to apply, visit PCO.

Internship, Counterproliferation

CRDF Global - Arlington, VA

The intern will work with the Counterproliferation Team within the Strategic Trade Controls and Border Security Division, assisting in project implementation, monitoring, and research into program history and new areas of programming. The Counterproliferation Team implements programming around the world in support of critical international and national security objectives, specifically related to threats posed to nonproliferation norms and restrictions. The ideal candidate is a highly motivated individual who can work both independently and as part of the team to assist with the development and coordination of international projects and who enjoys working in a challenging environment. Interns are paid at an hourly rate of 15.00 USD. For more information and to apply, visit the job listing.

Spotlight on...

The National Endowment for Democracy

The National Endowment for Democracy (NED) is a federally funded, private, nonprofit grant making organization that works to support freedom around the world. Read more about the NED. Applications should include a cover letter, resume, and three professional references, of which one should be a supervisor. Incomplete submissions will not be considered. Due to the volume of applications, only those selected to advance will be contacted. All positions are in Washington DC and are posted until filled.

Center for International Media Assistance

CIMA is currently seeking a paid intern for Summer 2020. The paid internship is open to current graduate or undergraduate students. Working on a small team, the intern will play a key role in supporting CIMA's core activities, including assisting with events, publications, and mailings. The Intern will also have the opportunity, under CIMA staff guidance, to conduct their own research and contribute to CIMA's blog on a topic relevant to their interests. The internship is a unique opportunity to learn more about an emerging field in development and media. For more information and to apply visit the job listing.

Latin America and the Caribbean

The paid internship provides excellent opportunities for contributing to NED's grant making process, preparing materials to assist the team in strategic planning and analysis, conducting research, writing, and attending relevant events. The intern will also interact with a stream of international visitors, speakers, and activists who are working in support of democratic development and human rights. The intern will work with NED's Latin America and the Caribbean program's staff in a combination of administrative and substantive issues. Some of the tasks will include but not be limited to: attend relevant meetings on key democracy issues affecting the region; review and summarize proposals for NED program staff review; assist in the preparation of grant cycle materials; help map out NGOs and donors working in key countries; carry out research on research-related issues and countries in Latin America, and attend meetings with visiting grantees. For more information and to apply visit the job listing.

Reagan-Fascell Democracy Fellows Program

The Reagan-Fascell Democracy Fellows Program is seeking a motivated individual to serve as a paid intern for Summer 2020. This paid internship provides professional development opportunities in the area of international exchange, with a focus on the program's website and social media presence, support for program publications and competition, and database management. The paid intern will interact with Reagan-Fascell Democracy Fellows in residence at the International Forum for Democratic Studies, the research and publications arm of the NED, and participate in the collegial environment of the Forum, including fellows' presentations and other NED events.
