Central Washington University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the assistant professor level in Christianity/ies beginning in fall 2015. We seek a promising scholar of religion with broad knowledge of Christian traditions and the ability to contribute to at least one of the college’s interdisciplinary programs, such as Latino & Latin American Studies, Africana & Black Studies, or Women’s & Gender Studies. Candidates must also be prepared to offer an upper-division survey course in Islam and/or Judaism. Please note that this position is not in Theological Studies or Missiology. The successful candidate’s responsibilities will include teaching seven courses annually (quarter system); supervising senior theses; advising; other customary service; active and productive scholarship. Ph.D. in Religious Studies or related field required prior to 15 September 2015, with preference given to those with a Ph.D. in Religious Studies. Must have demonstrated potential for teaching excellence at the undergraduate level; experience working with multicultural curriculum preferred. Experience with or willingness to learn how to teach online courses is preferred but not required. Applications received prior to November 17, 2014 will receive full consideration, with screening continuing until the position is filled. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply. A complete application must include an application letter, CV, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, transcripts (for highest degree obtained), evidence of teaching excellence, and at least three letters of reference. Submit all materials at: https://jobs.cwu.edu/, except reference letters, which should be mailed to Religious Studies Search Committee Chair, Department of Philosophy and Religious Studies, Central Washington University, 400 E. University Way, Ellensburg, WA 98926-7555; or emailed to philo@cwu.edu. For more information, see http://www.cwu.edu/philosophy/. AA/EOE/Title IX institution.
