COMMUNITY SERVICE RELATED TO TEACHING & RESEARCH INTERESTS

Lead volunteer cultural mentor for Mosaic Team 211, Lutheran Family Services (LFS)

Refugee and Asylee Program, Denver, CO, formal commitment (October 31, 2022 – May 1, 2023). I coordinate a 4-member team of local volunteers to help an Afghan family settle in Thornton and successfully integrate into the local community. Given my research and teaching in the field of international human rights and my responsibility as an adult citizen of the leading NATO member's failed project of “nation-building” and “regime change” over a 20-year war, I have felt a profound “moral injury” from what has unfolded in Afghanistan since the summer of 2021 and a responsibility to do something to help at least some of those who helped US efforts and are now in danger because of it. This does not involve “research subjects” in what DU might categorize as “community-engaged scholarship.” It is simply humane service that restores my faith in humanity and some fellow Americans on the volunteer team after a period of devastating challenges to liberal democracy in the US (part of my responsibility as a citizen) and Europe (my research focus) and hostile responses by both the US and many European countries to people fleeing violent persecution around the world.

LANGUAGES

German

I completed an undergraduate minor with a 4.0 GPA and, at the graduate level, received a Foreign Language and Area Study (FLAS) Fellowship for researching German political and legal materials. I lived in Germany for two years, participating in full-time academic study. I conducted interviews and related correspondence for dissertation research in Bonn exclusively in German. I am a fluent speaker/listener and am highly proficient in reading for my field of research and in general areas. I write German at the advanced college level.

French

I completed nine quarters of college course work during graduate school, earning recognition for my study with a Foreign Language and Area Study (FLAS) Fellowship. I conducted interviews and related correspondence for dissertation research in Paris exclusively in French. I am proficient in reading, listening, and speaking for my field of research, and write French at the advanced college level.
