

#DUToo Takes a Stand: Workshop on Sexual Harassment
Sturm Hall 454
Speaker Bios

Moderator: Andi Schlut

Andi is a junior at the University of Denver studying Political Science and Socio-legal Studies. She was a member of the winter quarter Advanced Seminar that designed this workshop. Currently, she serves as the Vice President of Communications for the Arts, Humanities, and Social Science Student Advisory Council. She is beginning work on her Political Science Honors Thesis.

Panelist: Rylie Riggio

Rylie is a former University of Denver Student and current DU employee. She graduated from the University of Denver in March 2018 majoring in Psychology and Sociology with a minor in English. She currently works on campus as a BOSS Peer Educator where she facilitates trainings about consent, gender violence, and bystander intervention and provides education and advocacy on these issues. She is a captain of the University of Denver Cheerleading Team and is responsible for the team's Community Outreach, organizing events within the Greater Denver community. She is also a lifetime member of Psi Chi, the International Honor Society in Psychology.

Panelist: Shannon Saul

Shannon is an undergraduate student at the University of Denver and president of DU's Collegiate Council on Gender Violence Topics where she works to increase prevention education and activism on issues of gender violence affecting the DU community. She is also a Hotline Advocate and Prevention Intern at the Blue Bench in Denver where she receives crisis calls from survivors and facilitates bystander intervention training in local schools.

Panelist: Bessie Nolan

Bessie is a first-year master's student studying Higher Education Administration in the Morgridge College of Education at the University of Denver. She currently holds two roles on campus – one with Academic Advising as an Academic Coach and the other with Health Promotion as the Gender Violence Prevention and Education IE Fellow. She received her BA from the University of Miami in Fall 2013 where she majored in Psychology and English. While in Miami, she was very involved in outreach programming through the Counseling Center as a Peer Educator. In that role, she worked with the Sexual Assault Response Team focusing on educational outreach and advocacy. After graduating, she worked for the University of Miami Counseling Center as their Outreach Programming Associate helping to oversee the Peer Educators and plan small- and large- scale events on campus.

Panelist: Camila Bernaldez

Camila is a senior at the University of Denver where she is majoring in Marketing. She was born in Mexico, has lived in countries all over the world, and has had extensive experience in internships and entry-level positions in the business world.